

The Ice

Bundled up by the warmth of the fire,
The heat melting our icy souls,
feeling brittle from the hate in the world.
A flurry of hail harshly pounding outside.
Anxiously awaiting Spring.

By: Annika Weir