- PAC brought in both internal and external speakers, collaborated with other PACs, police liaison office, and the school counseling service.

- PAC Facebook page and school newsletter provided a means to inform the school community.

- Understanding the school budget and allocating funding requests from gaming grants and other donations took more work this year than expected Requests were $34,000 more than funds available, with 26 requests received.
- Having Co-Chairs worked well to share the workload.
- Areas of improvement: increase outreach and coordination with other highschool PACs, increase understanding of school budget and funding sources, increase efforts to engage the school community, use the Dave Dunnett Theatre more, consider a virtual platform for meetings.
- Suggestions: Email specific grades with PAC information, hold a welcome for Grade 9 parents, set the calendar at the beginning of September to inform parents of upcoming PAC events and meetings, include PAC information in the parent package at the beginning of the year, inform the school community that PAC allocates existing funds vs. acts as a fundraising body.

Re: Review of VCPAC Activities for the 2022-23 School Year

This was my first year being officially involved with VCPAC, and I found it very rewarding to meet parents from other schools, to advocate for students at our school, and to learn more about how the district operates.

Some of VCPAC's primary achievements this year included two Meet the Candidate forums to introduce parents to school board trustee candidates in the fall. With a field of thirty candidates for nine spots, this was a great public service for voters.

VCPAC now has parent representatives on all district committees where a parent voice has been requested by the district. This includes the French Immersion committee, the committee studying how to move forward with the district police liaison program, and the school facilities committee at the secondary level.

This year I was one of two parents representing VCPAC on the district budget committee. This committee, composed of trustees and other stakeholders and rights holders in the district, was formed so we could communicate directly with trustees and district staff regarding our ideas for shaping the following year's budget. Many of our recommendations made it into the final budget.

This year VCPAC has been at all monthly school board meetings, advocating for students. The issues that we have been standing up for include coming up with a formal standards of practice for Educational Assistants and supporting that they be given a 30 hour work week, keeping the elementary strings and middle school music programs going without further cuts, restoring some custodial services that were cut in last year's budget for elementary and middle schools, advocating for equity and inclusion, and prioritizing mental health supports for all students.

VCPAC welcomes all parents to their meetings (currently the second Tuesday of each month). They are holding a gathering on May 30 from 7-9 PM at George Jay Elementary's library where parents can connect whose students are transitioning to the next grade, heading off to middle school, or high school, and would like to chat with parents undergoing similar experiences. They will also present their annual awards to dedicated staff members, parents and students. Then on May 31 from 7-8 PM, they will hold their AGM, via Zoom, where next year's Executive will be elected. If you are interested in getting involved, please contact president@vcpac.ca.

It's a great group of parents—and being connected to other parents in the district really is invaluable to share information and best practices. Being the VCPAC rep for our school is not a heavy lifting job – all that's required is attending monthly meetings and reporting back to the PAC. I'm happy to answer any questions over email if you are curious about this role.

Warmly,

Paula, pjmarchese@gmail.com
